CAUTION

On June 16, 2014, at approximately 4:16 p.m., the Malvern National Bank, 1111 Military Road, Benton, Arkansas, was robbed by an unknown white male and an unknown white female. After entering the bank, the male suspect vaulted the teller counter and started emptying money out of the tellers' drawers. The robbers used a black plastic bag that they brought with them to put the money in. The female suspect walked around the lobby and teller area yelling commands at the employees and customers who were present. The female suspect was seen holding a handgun that was further described as an automatic handgun. The suspects fled the bank area on foot. A blue SUV was identified as the getaway vehicle. It was driven by a third suspect, a white female with long blonde hair.
